Virginia "Ginny" Dailey Achieves Health Care Compliance Certification, Enhancing Strategic Support for Health Care Clients

TALLAHASSEE, FL — Shumaker Partner Virginia "Ginny" Dailey has earned her Health Care Compliance (CHC) certification through the Compliance Certification Board (CCB)®, reinforcing her depth of knowledge in regulatory frameworks and positioning her to continue guiding clients through evolving health care compliance landscapes with clarity, confidence, and strategic insight.

The credential enhances her insight into compliance program design, risk assessment, internal investigations, and government enforcement trends—allowing her to proactively identify vulnerabilities before they escalate into audits, investigations, or litigation. For hospitals, physician groups, long-term care providers, and other health care organizations, her certification signals a deeper alignment between regulatory strategy and operational realities, helping clients build defensible, effective compliance frameworks while protecting their reputations and financial stability.

"Earning the Health Care Compliance certification reflects Ginny's ongoing commitment to excellence and to deepening her experience in regulatory and compliance matters in health care," said Grant Dearborn, Partner and Health Law Service Line Leader at Shumaker. "Her dedication to mastering complex regulatory environments enhances the value she brings to our clients and strengthens our firm's capabilities in health care compliance counseling and dispute resolution."

With over two decades of experience, Ginny is widely respected for her exceptional legal acumen, integrity, and strategic approach. As a member of Shumaker's Litigation & Disputes Service Line, she focuses her practice on administrative and regulatory representation. Her work navigating complex regulatory frameworks, advising on licensing and rulemaking matters, and developing comprehensive strategies that

"This achievement reflects my commitment to excellence and to staying at the forefront of complex regulatory and compliance developments," said Ginny. "Earning a Health Care Compliance Certification further strengthens my ability to help our clients in the health care industry navigate today's increasingly scrutinized and rapidly evolving health care landscape."

The CCB®, a nationally recognized credentialing body for compliance and ethics professionals, establishes rigorous criteria to determine competence in the practice of compliance and ethics across various industries and specialty areas. Individuals who meet these standards are recognized through its certification programs.
