

Meghan O. Serrano

PARTNER, LITIGATION &
DISPUTES NATIONAL SERVICE
LINE LEADER

Board certified in business litigation by the Florida Bar, Meghan practices in all phases of civil and business litigation. She regularly represents businesses and business owners, employers, insurers, banks, lenders, and landlords in both state and federal court at the trial level and on appeal. Meghan also counsels personal representatives, surviving spouses, trustees, and beneficiaries in trust and estate disputes.

Meghan has extensive experience representing:

- Businesses in contract disputes
- Insurers in all types of civil litigation
- Employers in disputes with employees, including claims involving misappropriation and theft of trade secrets and confidential information and violation of non-compete agreements
- Lenders in title claims, foreclosures, deficiencies, workouts, and real estate owned matters
- Landlords in eviction actions and other lease disputes

With a passion for sharing her knowledge, Meghan is a contributing author in multiple supplements to LexisNexis' Foreclosures in Florida, which contain information she gained during the Great Recession while working with banks on loan defaults and foreclosure. She was selected by LexisNexis to author
